

LONG-LIFE PAVEMENT SYSTEM

ABSTRACT

A pavement system may be characterized by different combinations of distributor plates with or without longitudinal and/or cross stiffener frameworks, with all their elements designed in reinforced concrete to meet the requirements of structural capacity derived from its function of transferring vehicular or static loads to the foundation soil.